Our Mission:

To receive and share God's love through worship, education, service and outreach.

Editor's Note:

And it has arrived, the Heat is On! The traditional start to summer, Memorial Day Weeden has already come and gone and I hope you all took time to honor those men and women who courageously served our country. In God we Trust.

This month we culminate our Easter journey with the celebration of Pentecost and apostles proclaiming the resurrection of Christ. The season after Pentecost is the time of the church year we support our new disciples and the entire congregation in "living out the gifts we have been given in the name of Jesus and the power of the Holy Spirit." Let's support one another in the common work of using our gifts not just in this season, but always.

In Christian Love Petra

*Prayer to Walk as Children of the Light
Joy of Heaven, we are so blessed that You came to dwell in each of us on Pentecost, when Your church was born. Surely, through Your Spirit, we have died to sin and are alive to holiness. May we serve You faithfully, in praise, prayer, and loving service to others, as we are changed from glory to glory. May we walk as children of the light, in all goodness, righteousness, and truth. Amen.*

Romans 8:18–28 (NRSV)

Future Glory

18 I consider that the sufferings of this present time are not worth comparing with the glory about to be revealed to us. 19 For the creation waits with eager longing for the revealing of the children of God; 20 for the creation was subjected to futility, not of its own will but by the will of the one who subjected it, in hope 21 that the creation itself will be set free from its bondage to decay and will obtain the freedom of the glory of the children of God. 22 We know that the whole creation has been groaning in labor pains until now; 23 and not only the creation, but we ourselves, who have the first fruits of the Spirit, groan inwardly while we wait for adoption, the redemption of our bodies. 24 For in hope we were saved. Now hope that is seen is not hope. For who hopes for what is seen? 25 But if we hope for what we do not see, we wait for it with patience. 26 Likewise the Spirit helps us in our weakness; for we do not know how to pray as we ought, but that very Spirit intercedes with sighs too deep for words. 27 And God, who searches the heart, knows what is the mind of the Spirit, because the Spirit intercedes for the saints according to the will of God. 28 We know that all things work together for good for those who love God, who are called according to his purpose.

We have been Rocked by senseless violence and horrific acts of murder and this is not the first time, and sadly, it will not be the last time..

We need to Pray to Our Heavenly Father for HIS Peace and Comfort... We need to be spreading His Love, Grace, Mercy and Hope throughout or communities.

We need to pray: for our schools; our children; our teachers; our administrators and our first responders: Law Enforcement; Medical/EMT; and other counselors for the bereaved students; and parents; and teachers; and others impacted by the violence

He Is Risen! He is Risen indeed! We rest on that promise and as the details of this catastrophe emerge there will doubtless be soul searching for a “cure” for this Crime. Everything from increased gun restrictions to armed personnel at our schools and increased police presence.

Of Note: Chicago has some of the most stringent Gun Laws and yet that has not prevented the constant gun violence there.

Of Note: Look to all the calls for police defunding and reducing law enforcement personnel across or Nation. How does that play out?

Scripture in Romans 8:18-23 addresses our earthly condition and the Hope of for the Kingdom

18 I consider that the sufferings of this present time are not worth comparing with the glory about to be revealed to us. 19 For the creation waits with eager longing for the revealing of the children of God; 20 for the creation was subjected to futility, not of its own will but by the will of the one who subjected it, in hope 21 that the creation itself will be set free from its bondage to decay and will obtain the freedom of the glory of the children of God. 22 We know that the whole creation has been groaning in labor pains until now; 23 and not only the creation, but we ourselves, who have the first fruits of the Spirit, groan inwardly while we wait for adoption, the redemption of our bodies.

THE GRAPEVINE

I say all of this to submit that throughout history we have acts of senseless violence, we never get at the roots of the violence and Hate in the hearts of some people and those who are mentally marginalized or just so intent on the 15 seconds of fame that our society ascribes to these perpetrators.

I believe that the only POWER on Earth and in Heaven is dependent upon the Holy Spirit to comfort the hearts of the victims and their families and draw this hate from the hearts of the Haters and perpetrators.

24 For in hope we were saved. Now hope that is seen is not hope. For who hopes for what is seen?

Hope in God Saves us, preserves us and carries us through the difficult time in this FALLEN WORLD. We have the Spirit to help us in our weakness and The Holy Spirit intercedes for the saints...you and me!!!, according to the Will of God!!!

Yes ... be assured that in spite of what we see on the news and hear about of the violence and wars that ravage this Earth and God's Children...

We know that all things work together for good for those who love God, who are called according to his purpose.

As we come to a celebration of the men and women of the Armed Forces who Gave their lives in preserving our freedoms and the freedom of people all over the Globe through Conflict at Home and Abroad.

Take time to pray for those who have given ALL for our way of Life Make Memorial day something more than just a cookout with family, or a parade. We will place flags in front of our church sign and on grave markers of all veterans as I'm not able to determine in all cases if they lost their lives in service... Better honor all than to miss one deserving of recognition on Memorial day.

What Glorious Music and Services on all of our Sundays. Thank You Becky and Ann and our Choir for Lovely service and Easter Time as we celebrate the Seven weeks of EasterWe Are so Blessed!

Those flowers are blooming, and the pollen is very heavy.

I am so happy to be back in our post COVID worship posture. I think I have learned a lesson NOT to take those attributes of fellowship and contact in our worship and service and witness for granted.

Thank you!!! to our Worship Team who are stepping up and taking on more responsibilities of our Worship so we truly represent the entire congregation in all facets of our In-Person Worship!!!
Hallelujah!!!

This Saturday June 4th, 2022 is our Mobile Food Pantry with the Cryer Center from 9-11 AM everyone is invited to come and help or if you are unable to attend in person keep us and our clients in your prayers.

These Services: food pantry; meals on wheels; and other ministries; we provide to our community as our outreach. Each service is an example of Clarksbury living into our obedience to Christ's New Commandment to LOVE one another, just as Jesus has Loved us. It's not that we are doing good deeds because we are good people. We are performing Loving witness to our community to demonstrate that we are disciples of Jesus

Jesus Has Died! Jesus Is Risen! Jesus will Come Again!

We should be mindful of Jesus's Teachings and Lessons and Examples, Just as his disciples did, and follow His lead as He is the Way, The Truth and the Life that leads to the everlasting! Use Him as a pathway for our continued Christian service.

COVID restrictions and protocols are relaxed but many still remain, and we must keep in mind that the threat is not eliminated, and in some cases is elevated again with the recent variant....OMICRON. For some, the risks of COVID are very real and very present. We continue to lift up in our prayers those who are at risk and still under many restrictions.

We continue to acknowledge the generosity and efforts of our Soup Ministry/Prayer Warriors/Prayer Partners each month. They provide meals, soup, gifts, cards, letters and phone calls to many of our members as well as those at Fishing Bay Estates and other locations.

We are adding a NEW MINISTRY to our Nursing Home and assisted living congregation with jewelry provided for prizes for activities at the various facilities we support and pray for. They live through constant shutdowns and other risks and we need to redouble our efforts for their INCLUSION in our Outreach and MINISTRY. Thank You Jerry Dant for seeing this as a wonderful outreach opportunity... Anyone have questions or suggestions call Jerry or pass to me or Warren...

Keep the small groups and gatherings in your prayers as we look to maintain the innovative ways to be connected and look to expand these meaningful and joyful worship and sharing opportunities.

Let us continue to pray for the people who may encounter COVID-19 and be exposed to or suffer from the illness.

Peace & Grace,

Pastor Ken

THE GRAPEVINE

LAY LEADER — WARREN WRIGHT

For my message to you this month I'm going to use an edited commentary by the Rev. Robert J. Williams (Williams is top staff executive of the United Methodist Commission on Archives and History.) that I read on my Daily United Methodist Digest on May 16, 2014 and is still relevant today in 2022.

"If we neglect or refuse the invitation (to look into the windows of our past), we threaten to cut ourselves off from our genius, our mission, our rich contribution to the church catholic. Our history, our polity, our texts, our connectionalism — are these encumbrances from the past, barriers to effective mission, walls that entrap us? Or are they windows through which we see, with God's guidance, a vision for our calling as a church?"

United Methodist historian Russell Richey poses these questions in his book, "Methodist Connectionalism: Historical Perspectives" (United Methodist Board of Higher Education and Ministry, 2009).

In the same volume, he writes: "More needful than such hindsight is a compelling vision for the future. ... Memory, including the memory of our own tradition, constitutes an important source of Methodism's self-understanding, a point reinforced in the (Book of) Discipline's theological guidelines and its own appeal to history. We do need to be reminded of our forebears' vision and their perplexities. That can be a stimulus for today's ministry — but it will not suffice. History can inform but cannot provide the vision."

Do we as United Methodists have a usable past?

Informing, inspiring — and indicting

Several personal experiences illustrate the value of a historical perspective:

- When women were becoming clergy in the former Southern New Jersey Conference, much of the resistance was coming from women in the congregations. My wife was vice president of the district United Methodist Women, and I had just started graduate work at Drew University. We planned a program on the quest for ordination and clergy rights for women beginning with Barbara Heck on to Anna Oliver and to the present.
- When a member of the pastor-parish relations committee in a church challenged my use of gender-inclusive language, I quoted the 1880 Book of Discipline about masculine pronouns and language.

After completing my dissertation, I addressed a predominantly African-American church about New Jersey Methodists and issues related to African Americans. I tried to offer the hope that persons were studying this history so that we would not forget the injustices.

The past and present are closely intertwined, and Heritage Sunday calls us to reflect on those points of convergence in our own lives.

This year, the church is focusing on Thomas Coke, who, along with Francis Asbury, was the first American bishop of Methodism. The Commission on Archives and History has set the theme for Heritage Sunday as “The Church’s Heritage in Mission: Remembering the 200th Anniversary of the Death of Dr. Thomas Coke.”

Two centuries have not diminished the importance of Coke’s life to us today. He struggled with many of the same challenges we face, including tensions in the church and obstacles to evangelizing, and addressed social ills such as human trafficking.

The lives of Coke and those who have gone before us, and the journey of the Methodist movement itself, hold lessons and provide a framework for understanding our present and envisioning our future.

History can inform. History always teaches that for any issue, it’s more complex than we think! Every debate and issue today, including the global nature of the church, the study of ministry and the Four Areas of Focus, can be informed by knowledge of the past.

History can inspire. I think of Methodists Alma Matthews and Kathryn Maurer welcoming the stranger at Ellis Island and Angel Island, respectively, in the late 19th and early 20th centuries. It certainly relates to debates about immigration and powerfully illustrates ministry with the poor.

History can indict. This text from Isaiah can encourage us to write down what is happening, but the text goes on to state its purpose as reminding future generations about the sinfulness of those who were creating the record. In Isaiah 30:8-9 we read, “Go now, write it before them on a tablet, and inscribe it in a book, so that it may be for the time to come as a witness forever, for they are a rebellious people, faithless children, children who will not hear the instruction of the Lord.”

We regret the slow willingness to allow women to have full clergy rights, the reality of the Central Jurisdiction, the treatment of other racial/ethnic groups. I have had interest in the appointment record of Col. John Milton Chivington, a Methodist who led the massacre of Native Americans at Sand Creek 150 years ago. He was located at the time but still a prominent figure in the Methodist Episcopal Church and later readmitted on trial in the Nebraska Conference.

Concerns and questions

We are concerned about what it means if we don’t claim our history in shaping the church. What is the work to be accomplished? What values do we want to take into the 21st century from our history? What will help the church attract new disciples? We might ask what the church would look like through Francis Asbury’s glasses or what would John Wesley say to today’s church. Near the end of his biography of Asbury, titled “American Saint,” John Wigger quotes an 1808 letter from Asbury to Thomas Coke. In it, Asbury writes that “managing the appointments of all the circuit preachers ‘may possibly be my martyrdom. I see, I feel what is wrong in preachers and people, but I cannot make it right.” These words hold relevance for us today as well. United Methodist theologian Albert Outler said, “I’m not interested in Wesley, I’m interested in the same things Wesley was interested in.” That speaks to my interest in the life and ministry of both John and Charles Wesley, the founders of Methodism. The Wesleys were interested in faith and in living that faith. I am interested in that as well. John’s spiritual autobiography informs my own spiritual experiences. His insights into the experience of salvation can still speak to 21st century persons. Charles' hymns have a theological depth and experiential power that we will lose at our peril if we don't sing them alongside the current music and there are fresh tunes available.

United Methodists do have a usable past. The past becomes even more relevant to us through the act of remembering. Scripture emphasizes the importance of this, with Jeremiah 6:16 offering one of many examples: "Thus says the Lord: Stand at the crossroads, and look, and ask for the ancient paths, where the good way lies; and walk in it, and find rest for your souls." Perhaps the most important word about memory is said when we take the bread and cup as part of the Lord's Supper, for Jesus said, "Do this in remembrance of me." The "ministry of memory" shapes us, informs and inspires our mission, and creates a vision for discipleship. In spite of the pieces of our past that we would want to reform or repudiate, I still say with the Psalmist (Psalms 16:6b), "I have a goodly heritage."

It is history that teaches us to hope-Robert E. Lee

Our team would like to thank the ladies and their friends for all of the jewelry left to be delivered for Bingo prizes. The jewelry will be carried to Dockside, Sanders, The Gloucester House and Walter Reed Rehab. We have a member in each of the facilities and I am sure they will enjoy making a selection from the beautiful jewelry.

Our college kids are home for the summer and we hope to see them soon. I am sure they had a great year and look forward to going back in the fall. Natalie Nichols finished her first year of Graduate School for PT. She plans to work, take a class and attend a Bev. Moore Bible Conference with her mother before returning to Shenandoah University this fall. Jimmy Nichols plans to work, take a hiking vacation with his family before returning to Roanoke College to continue in the Chemistry Program. The twins are back too! They are both excited to relax from a tough year at school although they both are looking for a little bit of work to make some money for next year too! Our Wahoo completed her second year at UVA and declared electrical engineering as her focus. She played for the girls rugby team for a second year and is a member of the First Year Players where she served as the mistress of props. Our Royal Duke completed the second year of music education at JMU and has been selected to be a part of the leadership team for the Marching Royal Dukes next fall and has also been selected as an officer in the flute club. We could not be more proud of our youth! We wish all of them a great relaxing summer!

June Power of Prayer

"What is prayer? The best definition of prayer is that it is a lifting of the mind and the heart to God.

Prayer is a dialogue. Man breaks silence in two ways: a dialogue with his fellow man and a dialogue with God.

Prayer is a lifting of the heart and mind to God; notice we said nothing about the emotions.....

Prayer is in the intellect, in the will, and the heart, as embracing a love of truth with a resolve and determination to grow in love through and act of will.

Often in prayer we do not have a deep sense of God's presence...but we know He is there....

Prayer is an interaction between the created spirit and uncreated Spirit, which is God. It is a communication, adoration, a penance, happiness, a work, a rest, an asking, a submission.

Why should we pray? Why breathe? We have to take in fresh air and get rid of bad air; we have to take in new power and get rid of old weaknesses. We pray because we are orchestras and always need to tune-up. Just as battery sometimes runs down and need to be charged, so we have to be renewed in spiritual vigor. Our blessed Lord said, "without Me you can do nothing." (John 15:5)"
